I am a visual artist exploring a playful, yet reverent relationship to the world's natural places. My abstract paintings and sculptures are nature-inspired and heavily drawn from traveling and exploring new landscapes, especially within Sierra Nevada mountains. Through the use of abstract and organic shapes, as well as bold colors on often larger canvases, I strive to transport my viewer from the daily mundane to a fantastical place, if only for a moment. viewers with an uplifting and contemplative experience that strengthens their own relationship with nature, in the hope that they will become better stewards of it.
